logal Aid Society Taken Steps Which Will Add to Its Fund. Which Will Add to Its Fund.
It was unanimously decided by the Legal Aid Society at a special meeting held pasterday in President Arthur Von Brissen's office at No. 29 Broadway to amend the constitution so as to admit life members. The resolution adopted provides that a person may berouse a life member upon payment of 5.600 or more. The resolution requires the approval of the Board of Directors.
The Frestfent has already received applications from nine persons who wish to become patrons. They are Sech Low, Edwin Gould, Julien T. Davies, Jacob
H. Schiff, Isaac N. Seligman, Oswald
Ottendorfer, Mrs. Tod, Mrs. Edith Carpenter Macy and Mrs. Anna Wosrishoffer.

MACKELLAR DIED POOR.

Deputy Police Chief Left Widow Nearly Penntless.

Deputy Chief of Police John Mac-kellar, of Brooklyn, will be buried Sunday, the services being held at his late home, 247 Eleventh street, Sat-urday night. The dead officer was a poor man, in striking contrast with the realthy police captains of Manhattan. At a meeting of the highest officers of the Department in Chief Devery's office it was decided to give his widow an endowment of $1,000.

For a trial performance this matinee was a very creditable affair. The the-atre was filled, and yet I will wager there wasn't $6 in the box office.

Every professional you ever saw or heard of was there. Daniel Frohman's comedians, attracted by a knowledge that some of Cissis (beg pardon, "Ce-cilla") Loftus's songs were to be sung. here and there were members of the support of John Hare, John Drew, Otis Harlan, Olga Nethersole, Peter Dailey, Weber and Fields, William H. Crane, Maclyn Arbuckle and even of Bernhardt and Coquelin. The latter seemed particularly fond of "frog song" written by Miss Loftus. Not since the Actors' Fund fair at Madison Square Garden, nearly ten years ago, have I seen so many familiar theatrical faces under one roof.

But to return to the farce. In my opinion Miss Irwin did very well in saving that $1,000 and thus reserving "Madge Smith" for her excitative use. It is a much better vehicle for her peculiar sityle of entertainment than sile now employs called "The Belle of Bridge-port." It is very cruda, and neither Miss Irwin nor her players knew their lines—which was perhaps quite as well at times, because many of these same lines, were strangely reminiscent of the dear, were strangely reminiscent of the dear, dead days of the San Francisco Min-

For purely businese reasons Miss May Irwin gave a special matines at the Bijou Theatre yesterday afternoon, producing a farce by Ramsay Morris called "Madge Smith, Attorney."

The businese reasons responsible for this production were, I am told, a sun of 'H,000 on deposit to be forfeited by Miss Irwin if the farce was not given in New York this season.

Miss Irwin loves money with a passionate ardor, which has enabled her to collect large clusters of real estate both

Mark I wash once told me that Ayer a Airquance had made more persons leaugh that had all the boks he has ever written.

"A jest placed opposite a tribute to a chest protector will cause more national merriment than a library of volumes which fail to mention the virtues of a kidney cure," he added, sadly.

Miss Irwin had yesterday her customary support. Miss Irwin is built in a manner which calls for solid support. Should she grow dizzy and find herself surrounded by a group of pigmies she would probably break through the stage and land, bruised and bleeding. In the celiar. I used to wonder why it was she invariably engaged young women of generous girth and enormous physical development to wear attractive gowns and do nothing. Yesterday I tearned, She pays them salaries to carry her off the stage if she faints, just as Scannell has trained firemen in the house in case of sidden conflagration, and Devery has his representatives in case a riot occurr.

Joseph Sparks and George Beane, and Bert Thayer, and Martinetti (first mame omitted because compositors cannot be expected to stay up all night), and Jacques Kruger, and Rojand Carter, and Charles Church (who still insists on looking like H. B. Sire, and the Misses Peters, Woodward, Almy, Sands and Blair, all did well. Those mentioned are the muscular persons mentioned above.

The only member who could not acquered to a stay was a mentioned above, the only member who could not acquere the success of the same thought as a success of the same though a solution of the stage is she like the success of the service MANDOLINS

CHRISTMAS CATALOGUE.

Open

There are three things to consider in your selection of Christmas gifts: 1.—The quality. 2.—The style. 3.—The price. We can serve you better in all of these three because of two other things. One is our factory on the premises, with its skilled men and modern machinery. It saves middlemen's profit, and, better than that, it shuts out all chance of careless work. The second is the economy of our location and of all our business methods. It is simply impossible to make anywhere a wiser selection than right here. And nobody e'se that we know of can give you quite as good value.
